

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

After the description of the data in the previous chapter, based on the research and data analysis appropriateness material of English textbook “Your English Partner” with the students’ needs and level learning. It can be concluded that the materials of the textbook are appropriate enough for students because it fit with the criteria which are motivating and meaningful, authentic and appropriate, graphic and graded, interesting, interactive and integrated, the last contextual and creative (Rajan & Sundara, 2003). Thereafter, the material in learning-teaching context covers all the nine aspects which are general, listening, speaking, reading, writing, vocabulary, grammar, pronunciation, and exercises. However, for general attribute which related to the curriculum which means the relation between textbook and the syllabus, methodology, suitability to the learners, physical and utilitarian attributes, and efficient outlay of supplementary materials (Makundan, Nimechisalem, & Hajimohammadi, 2011). There are lack in the criteria, which the researcher do not find the relation of the curriculum and the textbook and this books not have clear instruction in every task, this textbook only have clear instruction in listening skill.

B. Suggestions

1. UPB' lecturer of UIN Antasari

The researcher hope that all the lecturers can use the materials on the textbook efficiently in teaching and learning process and can explore more with methods and activities in order to help students to understand the material and have best learning English experiences and the researcher hope the writer to improve what this book need such as clear instruction in every activity weather it is conversation, listening, writing and so on.

2. To the further Researchers

For the next researcher who will take the same theme, the research hope they will explore and do deeper research about the material of the English textbooks. They can try to analysis the content of the material or compare two or more English textbook for English or other courses. In addition, some weaknesses of this research can be a reference for further research in the future in order to make a complete study about the appropriateness material of English textbook "Your English Partner" with the students' needs and level learning.