

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

The primary goal of this thesis is to analyze the category shift that found in the translation of Instagram captions by @motivasi.co. The identification and classification of category shifts in the data were performed by the researcher using theory of translation shift by Catford.

The researcher discovered all types of category shifts in this translation after analyzing the data. Intra -system shift, unit shift, class shift and structure shift were the types of category shift that researcher found in this translation of Instagram captions. Based on the analysis of the data, category shift has been applied in translation. Although the translation is a bit stiff, but the results of the translation can still be understood easily and consistent with theory of translation shift by Catford (1965).

B. Suggestions

While this study provides valuable insights, there are still some limitations that need to be addressed. Here are some suggestions for further improvement:

1. Future research is suggested to continue this research with a discussion of the quality of the translation.

2. Future research should explore category shifts in various literary works and textual materials to gain a better understanding of their use and placement in different types of text.
3. Translators are encouraged to incorporate more category shift into their translations to produce more natural and acceptable renditions for the target language readers.
4. Lecturers are advised to incorporate additional materials on category shifts into their courses. This will enhance students' comprehension and interest in the field of translation.
