

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

After discussion part in the previous chapter, the researcher summaries result of the discussion based on statement of the problem as follow:

1. The strategies are used by EFL learners in writing Academic Essay are memory strategies, cognitive strategies, compensation strategies, metacognitive strategies, affective strategies and social strategies.
2. The way how EFL learners use the strategies as follow: Memory strategies, by reviewing/linking the new information and combine it to old information then create the new sentence; Cognitive strategies, make a draft for the writing; Compensation strategies, using synonym and replace with the new word; Metacognitive strategies, fixing the mistakes right away; Affective strategies, do something to feel relax; Social strategies, get feedback then revise and motivation word for themselves.

B. Suggestion

1. Based on the study findings and EFL strategies in essay writing, they have good writing skills and the opportunity to further improve. They are capable of writing in polite language, which continues to improve day by day. The following suggestions are for students who want to enhance their skills: utilize your digital skills to learn essay writing in a more effective way.
2. For future researchers conducting studies on writing, there are numerous theories available, but embracing AI technology will be more beneficial for the next generation in education. In this context, by leveraging advancements in AI technology, students can utilize specialized digital applications or platforms designed to assist them in improving their writing skills.

3. For instance, there are various AI tools that can aid with grammar, sentence structure, and provide feedback and suggestions to enhance the quality of their writing.

Moreover, it is crucial for students to practice writing regularly. They can engage in activities such as keeping a personal journal, blogging, or joining writing groups. By practicing consistently, they will be able to sharpen their writing skills, expand their vocabulary, and refine their writing style. Furthermore, for researchers interested in the field of writing, there are many theories to explore. Studying theories of writing ranging from traditional approaches to contemporary ones can provide valuable insights. However, with the evolution of technology, adopting AI technology in writing research can offer greater benefits. The use of AI technology in analyzing large textual data, identifying patterns and providing writing suggestions and recommendations can enrich our understanding of the writing process and contribute to advancements in this field of research. In conclusion, students who utilize their digital skills to learn essay writing more effectively will gain significant advantages. Additionally, researchers who embrace AI technology in their studies will be able to uncover new insights and make valuable