

CHAPTER IV

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

After conducting the research and inventing all the data about etymology of English loanword that used in the headlines of The Jakarta Post, the researcher would like to conclude that:

The result based on my study in the headlines of The Jakarta Post published in July 2015, I found out that there are 56 words (69,9 %) of 81 words that originated from and related to Latin, 40 words (49,3%) from French, 33 words (41 %) From Germanic, 16 words (19,7%) from Dutch, 14 words (17,2%) from Greek, 13 words (16 %) from Swedish, 11 words (13,6%) from Danish, 9 words (11%) from Old Norse, 8 words (9,88%) From Italian, 5 words (6,1 %) related to Russian, 4 words (4,94%) from Spanish, 3 words (4 %) from Frisian, 3 words (4 %) from Arabic, and 2 words (2,5%) from Sanskrit.

B. Suggestion

- a. The finding can enrich the student vocabulary, it is better to give in teaching English, especially in linguistics aspects, for student of English Department.
- b. The writers hopes this research can be used as academic reference in learning linguistic and academic research.