

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

In this chapter, the researcher presents the result of the study which consists of conclusion and suggestion. The first part provides conclusion from the research. The second part presents suggestions for the lecturer and students.

A. Conclusion

Based on the explanation in the previous chapter, the researcher found the conclusion as follow:

1. The researcher found the students' difficulties in paraphrasing, can be concluded into three aspects: The way students change the words (synonym), changed the sentence structure (grammar), and order of ideas (word order).
2. There are some reasons why the students face the difficulties in paraphrasing as follows:
 - a. Lack of vocabulary,
 - b. Less practice,
 - c. The students can not understand the meaning of the text,
 - d. The lecturer can not explain clearly,
 - e. The students did not know how to make a good paraphrase, and
 - f. The students did not understanding paraphrasing.

B. Suggestion

The researcher found that many students have problem in paraphrasing. Moreover, the researcher would present some of suggestions. There are:

1. The lecturer should more focus on the students' writing in paraphrasing especially in changing grammar or structure. This research showed that almost of students in the seventh semester of English Department UIN Antasari Banjarmasin still cannot use the correct grammar when they tried to change it. To decrease this problem, researcher suggests to the lecturer for giving them more practice for the students.
2. The students are suggested to do more practice by paraphrasing the text and try to understand the ideas and interpret it in their own word. By interpreting the ideas and write it in their own word, the students are expected to be able to improve their paraphrasing skill as they try to paraphrase the text or paragraph.
