

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

In this chapter, the researcher describes the closure. It consists of a conclusion and suggestion.

A. Conclusion

Base on the explanation in the Chapter IV, it can be conclude that:

1. There are 6 kinds of Semantic Field from the 13 articles, namely Worship Place, High Structure, Building Material, Underground Structure, Commercial Foodservice, and Types of Road.
2. By using a componential analysis, each lexeme is analyzed by looking for meaning and using the symbol "+" which means "the presence of or yes" and the symbol "-" which means "absence or not, and the symbol" +/- "means that componential both "Can be yes" or "can be not" at all. From the tables in the Chapter IV, several lexemes are classified according to the semantic features component.

B. Suggestion

The writer suggests that further researchers who are interested in conducting research in the semantic field can deepen their knowledge about this. the writer also suggests expanding or increasing the number of texts studied not only one magazine but maybe 2 magazines by taking several samples of text in each magazine so that their knowledge of semantics field theory can be broader by applying the componential analysis theory. In addition, the writer suggests taking a more scientific magazine theme so that it is easy to find each meaning of lexemes and easily classify them based on this theory.