

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

The speech of president Barack Obama reflects the process of language features which is passed by lexical and grammatical features. This study focusses on Barack Obama's speech as the main character. How Barack Obama's speech in lexical features and how Barack Obama's speech in grammatical features. This analysis includes that Obama used the noun, verb, adjective, pronouns, metaphor and rhetorical to support his arguments effectively.

This study deals with the analysis of language Feature in Obama's speech. This study focuses on the process of lexical and grammatical features as languages features. Hopefully, this study hope will help readers, especially English students, to recognize the process by which each person experiences a language feature. This research method is content analysis. Content analysis is a widely used qualitative research method. Current applications of content analysis represent three different approaches rather than a single method There are some nouns/verbs/adjectives that found on Obama's speech that are: concrete noun (4), proper noun (14), collective noun (2), abstract noun refers to event (2), abstract noun refers to social qualities (1). action verb (12), transitive verb (5), auxiliary verb (4), modal verb (3), phrasal verb (1), irregular verb (4), descriptive adjective (6), demonstrative adjective (9), possessive adjective (12).

B. Suggestion

This research is expected to help English learner in learning English skill like speaking, reading, writing and listening.

1. For speaking and reading, the student may use Barrack Obama's speech text in public speaking, in front of class and other place
2. For writing, the student may expect to write a simple speech with her own words to improve their writing skill.