Comments to the Corresponding Author

Generally speaking, this article is very interesting. Its presentation of the subject matter can be understood easily. However, with regard to its discussion of the thoughts of the three scholars, it seems to me that it does not go into detail. Only general overviews that are proposed by them are mentioned here. In addition, the analyses of their thoughts seem not enough. For example, in the case of their thoughts about western hermeneutics, the author(s) of this article does not analyze in a critical way whether their ideas are correct or not, and why. Last, but not least, it would be good, if the author(s) read the article that has been just published in Al-Jami'ah: Journal of Islamic Studies, Vo. 59:2 (2021) under the title "Differing Responses to Western Hermeneutics: A Comparative Critical Study of M. Quraish Shihab's and Muhammad 'Imarah's Thoughts."

Comments to the Corresponding Author

The main topic discussed in this article has potential and offers significant insight about current development in Quranic studies in Indonesia. However, the article is generally hard to read because of the language issues. Some sentences seem ambiguous even incomplete, and I find several technical terminologies really in need of adequate explanation (see my comments in attached document).

Comments to the Corresponding Author

The revised version of your article is very good. Nevertheless, there is still a very small mistake, i.e., the name 'Schleirmacher' must be written: 'Schleiermacher'.

We suggest the author gets the article, including the abstract proof read by a native speaker of English or a profession editor to ensure the language reaches the language required for scholarly publication. Please provide proofreading evidence along with your final submission.

Preparing Publish-Ready Version of the Articles: Instructions to Author

- Between now and towards the publication date, we shall be in touch with you for editorial queries and check for final proof. Please be aware of this and we hope to get your appropriate response in a timely fashion.

- Authors are responsible to ensure that the article goes through thorough proofreading and language editing (Malay or English, respectively). Where appropriate, engage a professional, certified editing service to eliminate all language errors.

- Set the language to English (UK) @ Bahasa Malaysia, respectively. Make necessary changes to fulfil to this language style and convention.

- In the publish-ready version, include the following: full title; full name of the author(s); full institutional address; author's email; abstract and keywords (including the English translation of the abstract and keywords for Malay articles).

- Ensure that the manuscript is sectioned following the journal's style, e.g., Introduction. The sections should follow the following template (example):

Abstract
Introduction
The Main Contents
Sub-topic of contents (bold, sentence-case formatting)
Sub-subtopic (italic bold)
Conclusion
Acknowledgements
References

- In this article, authors need to ensure insertion of all illustrations (figures, tables, etc.) in the article in the right order, together with the accompanying captions (not as separate attachments).

- Create an Acknowledgements section (after Conclusion), indicating the grant source and grant provider, where applicable.

- If the manuscript contains footnotes, convert all footnotes into endnotes. Endnotes should be placed before References.

- Double-check accuracy of in-text references with reference list (at the end of the article). All references cited in the text should be cited in (Author, Year) format and listed in the reference list in alphabetical order.

- Double-check completeness of bibliographic listing (e.g., books must come with city of publication), page numbers, issue number, etc.

- At the end of each reference, include the DOI info, where applicable. The DOI should follow the format:
https://doi.org/doi_identifier

Dear editorial team,

I have answered, commented on the queries and proposed revisions of my manuscript. Firstly, in principle, I agree with editorial team's correction of some errors and I would like to express my deepest thank to them for this. Secondly, I also have made some clarifications, for example the use of word "verbatim" (verbatim-revelation), that editorial team can rethink in the terms of right or false. Thirdly, I also proposed correction of error in citing reference. All these can be seen in attached file.

Thank you very much.
