2-6 Months	Undifferentiated	Babbling	No bilabial sound
6-15 Months	Undifferentiated	First words(age of appearance might be speakers but is still within normal range)	Less than new words per week
1-2 Years less than	Undifferentiated	Language blend(parts of words in both languages are	20 words(2 languages combined) by 20 months blended in the same word)

2-3 Years	Undifferentiated	Language mixing(words of different languages are used in the same phrase or adapted to the grammar of the other language)
4 Years and Older	Differentiated	Use each languages or a separate system	A countable number of words by 30 months. No word combination

The table above presents the different stages of the acquisition development of two languages in children from the birth to the age of 4. -The first stages is undifferentiated, no remarkable differences marked compared to the monolingual child, we can consider it as normal process because his brain is not prepared yet(in the phase of growth) to make a difference between the two languages. At the age of 3 years ,he may initiate to use some words from the both languages it's can be names of things;how to call his family member with the two languages for example bilingual of English and Italian language (brother/fratello –mother/madre father/padre ;etc.)

The second stage(4 year and older) is differentiated there is an evolution at the level of the language; a clear distinction between the two languages, the use of each language in her specific situation for example language of the home is not the same of the playground; he then developed the ability to communicate with others
