Keywords: Concept, Family, Islamic Religious Education, Practice, Religious Leaders.

The family acts as the first educational institution for children, including in providing the basics of Islamic religious education. The condition of parents as natural educators will give a distinctive color to Islamic religious education in the family. Especially the figure of the religious leaders who has a special role and status in society.

This research seeks to explore the concepts and practices of Islamic religious education in the Muara Teweh religious leaders family. The purpose of this research is to find out how the concept of Islamic religious education is in the religious leaders family and how the practice of Islamic religious education is in the Ulama's family.

The research method is descriptive qualitative using interviews, observation and documentation as a way of extracting data. The research was conducted in the City of Muara Teweh, North Barito Regency. The informants consisted of several scholars from the City of Muara Teweh, who were taken purposively.

The results of the study show 1) The concept of Islamic religious education in the family of religious leaders in Muara Teweh is teaching Islamic religious materials that are fardhu ain in nature such as aqidah, morals, prayer, fasting, and reading the Koran. The provision of such teaching begins at an early age which is carried out by parents as an obligation and accountability to Allah and as the initial foundation of children's diversity. 2) The practice of Islamic religious education in the families of religious figures in Muara Teweh is carried out by teaching Islamic religious material such as faith, morals, prayer, fasting, and reading the Qur'an from an early age. Methods of habituation and giving examples dominate in the practice of Islamic religious education in the families of Muara Teweh religious leaders. In addition, the practice of Islamic religious education in the families of religious figures is also supported by Islamic-based educational institutions such as Islamic boarding schools and madrasas as well as a religious living environment.
