The Qur'ân is the words of Allâh revealed to the Prophet Muḥammad (peace be upon him), which is full of virtue and in harmony with place and time. The Qur'ân became the main source of reference in Islam. In addition, the Qur'ân has various functions, namely guiding in matters of creed, sharia, and morals. Apart from being a guide, the Qur'ân also solves human problems in multiple aspects of life-related to the universe's issues, psychological, physical, social, economic, and others. This time, the community functions the Qur'ân in many life activities, including rain-bringing, as done by the Kerta Bhakti Village, Long Ikis District, Paser Region community.

The problem in this study is how's the form of the practice of the use of Qur'anic verses for bringing down rain at Kerta Bhakti Village, Long Ikis District, Paser Region? and how is the meaning of the villagers on the use of Qur'anic verses bringing down rain in this place?.

This type of research is field research, with the research location in Kerta Bhakti Village, Long Ikis District, Paser Regency. This research is qualitative descriptive research, a research procedure describing the state of the object under study using visible facts or symptoms that occur. The analysis uses an anthropological technique approach to discuss various similarities and differences in human cultural diversity.

The results of this study are as follows:

First, the form of practice carried out by villagers in rain-bringing can be done together or individually. No medium is used besides reading the rain's verses practice, namely Surah Nuh verses 10-12. Second, the villagers interpretation of this bringing rain's verses turns out not only as a bring rain's verses but can be a drawee of sustenance, serenity, and forgiveness because the verse is interpreted as istighfâr, which has many virtues.
