

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusions

The researchers drew the following conclusions based on the research results on using Qur'an verses as a medium for rain in Kerta Bhakti Village.:

1. Using Quranic verses to rain in Kerta Bhakti Village can be classified into two forms. The first, it is performed collectively in the mosque or prayer hall. The second, it can be practiced individually without being bound by specific places and times.
2. The villagers meaning of the rain's verse turns out that it not only functions as a rain bringer but can be a drawee means of living, finding inner peace, and getting forgiveness because, in that verse, it is interpreted as istighfâr (seeking forgiveness), which has many virtues.

B. Suggestions

To the practitioners, preserving the local traditions related to using Quranic verses for bringing rain is advised. Additional, they should continue incorporating the Quran into their daily lives, recognizing it as an essential part of their spiritual needs.

And to the general public, it is encouraged to express gratitude for Allah's blessings in the form of rain and contemplate its significance to strengthen their faith.

To the readers, the findings of this research will broaden their knowledge regarding the utilization of Qur'anic verses as a means to induce rain. In this context, the Quran, alive within society, should not be limited to mere recitation but utilized beyond its textual meaning, as it holds vast dimensions and implications.