

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

This research has found and analyzed various sources. Each website has extraordinary features, is simple, cheap, affordable, and very easy to access by anyone who has an internet network. BBC Learning English is suitable for students of all levels, from beginner to advanced. BBC Learning English is very complete and colorful. Everyone can study there, from children to adults. BBC Learning English provides very good features in its application so that students can choose what English skills they want to learn, such as speaking skills, pronunciation skills, grammar skills, vocabulary and so on.

BBC Learning English on its YouTube channel also has very good features and there are thousands of English learning videos and audio. Professional and native English teachers will be displayed or posted there to directly teach words, expressions, idioms, grammar, slang in English. BBC News is also very easy to access for readers who want to improve their reading skills, enrich their vocabulary and keep their English good. BBC News provides news and reading material sourced from official BBC correspondents and writers.

BBC News is the most elite application and is specifically for advanced levels. And BBC News is an English learning application for those who want to improve their speaking skills, vocabulary, grammar, and gain the latest world insight. Various reading materials are available on BBC News, ranging from the latest news about the world, science, business and enterprise, documentaries, stories, technology, news in many countries, sports news, to special interviews with sources and other successful or popular figures.

B. Suggestion

In this section, the author will provide suggestions for English teachers who want to teach English to their students based on research findings and discussions. It is recommended that English teachers should be more familiar with technology so they can design simple, effective and fast learning strategies to teach English to their students.

Teachers must be able to find good and fun media, methods, systems, learning programs to arouse enthusiasm for learning English in students, especially in speaking, grammar, vocabulary and listening. Fun and interesting pictures and videos will arouse students' interest in learning further and can improve their English skills. Therefore, teachers need to understand the latest technology in today's fast-paced era.

To the next researcher who has problems learning English, and is interested in exploring more deeply about learning English via the internet in conducting research. It is recommended that this research can be used as a reference. Hopefully there will be further research related to this and can add to this English learning technique.