Keywords: majelis taklim, value internalization, Islamic education, jama'ah.

This study aimed to analyze the role of majelis taklim in internalizing Islamic educational values among the congregation in Pulau Laut Utara District. The internalization of Islamic educational values referred to in this study included the values of faith (aqidah), worship (ibadah), morality (akhlaq), and responsibility, which were implemented through various religious and social activities within the majelis taklim. This study was motivated by the importance of majelis taklim as a non-formal Islamic educational institution in instilling Islamic values continuously in the daily lives of the congregation.

This study employed a qualitative approach with a field research design. Data were collected through observation, interviews, and documentation. The main research instrument was the researcher, supported by interview and observation guidelines. The subjects of the study consisted of majelis taklim teachers, administrators, and congregation members, totaling 15 participants, who were selected using purposive sampling.

The results of the study showed that majelis taklim played a significant role in internalizing Islamic educational values through religious lectures and study sessions, spiritual development activities such as dhikr and shalawat, strengthening social character, increasing active participation of the congregation, and applying contextual and cultural learning approaches. These roles successfully instilled the values of faith, worship, morality, and responsibility in the daily lives of the congregation in a sustainable manner.
