

CHAPTER V

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

Based on the analysis in the previous chapter it can be concluded that:

1. The English Club programs work at MAN 3 Banjarmasin with structure in organization supervised by the head of the school directly, and Mr. Sandi as English teacher that enforced the English Club. The members of English Club are the students from XI and XII grade. Actually the students who entered to this English Club will have some agendas or activities that bolster them up in improving some English skills such as speaking, listening, writing, reading, grammar and how to pronounce English well.
2. The lacks of English club program at MAN 3 Banjarmasin are:
 - a. Lacks of awareness in participating in English Club
 - b. Lacks of motivation in learning by themselves
 - c. Difficulty in publication outside of school
 - d. Less of model in learning English subject
3. The ways to improving English Club program at MAN 3 Banjarmasin
 - a. Making a conducive situation in English Club program
 - b. Making some variety fun activities in English club program
 - c. Making good relation to English Club program in other schools
 - d. Keeping the sustainability of English Club

B. Suggestion

In the framework of intensifying the development of English club, the writer gives suggestion or contributions as follows:

1. A tutor should use electronic media in order to be more attractive in providing the material in the process of learning English. Provision of material through the approach track, the game more interesting so that it can attract students to attend English Club.
2. The Head master recommended to provide facilities that are considered conducive to teaching and learning activities in English.
3. Preferably that the school hold the English club twice in one week.

Teachers are also advised to ensure that students know clearly about the objectives of the program. Teachers should explain the competence targets to be achieved by the students who attend the program. Finally, teachers must also select teaching materials, teaching techniques, and media that can lead students to achieve the implementation of the program.

