

CHAPTER IV

CLOSURE

A. Conclusion

Throughout the research, the following conclusions can be stated as follow:

1. In the novel The Wright 3 by Blue Balliett, the writer was found six compound words, including: compound nouns, compound adjectives, compound verbs, compound adverbs, compound pronouns, and compound prepositions.
2. The six compound words in the novel The Wright 3 by Blue Balliett have both denotative and connotative meaning. In other word, they appear as core meanings (endocentric compound) and additional or other meanings (exocentric compound).
3. The most of compound words in the novel The Wright 3 by Blue Balliett are compound nouns that have more denotative meanings than connotative meanings like the compound adverbs. In addition, all of compound pronouns and the compound prepositions are denotative. On the other hand, the most of compound verbs are connotative whereas some of compound adjectives are denotative and some are connotative.

B. Suggestion

The writer gives some suggestions as follow:

1. Studying compound words in such novel are more interesting because in addition to get the ideas of the stories, people will know and understand the compound words indirectly. Therefore, teachers can apply it in their teaching and learning to their students.
2. Studying compound words needs carefulness, especially in their meanings. They have to be understood as whole parts not word by word because their meaning usually cannot be guessed from the meanings of their parts.
