B. Suggestion

Reffering to the conclusion above, the researcher proposes some suggestion to the students and the teacher as follows:

1. The students must practice simple materials. This is particuraly important because they may feel insecure when they are asked to stop giving equal attention to every word.
2. The material should contain no language difficulties at all. The students need to be introduced to parts of the paragraph, so they can stop classifying which one is major points and which is specific information.
3. The English teacher must revive students' interest toward reading. The teacher needs to introduce interesting materials such as stories to meet students' attention.
